Wages	No. of Workers (f)	Cumulative Frequency (c.f.)
20 - 30	25	25
30 - 40	12	37
40 - 50	15	52
50 - 60	13	65
60 - 70	5	70
	N = 70

Median = size of $\left(\frac{N}{2}\right)^{\text{th}}$ item

35th item lies in cumulative frequency 37 which corresponds to the class interval 30-40.
Thus, median class is 30-40.

$$\text{Median} = l_1 + \frac{\frac{N}{2} - \text{c.f.}}{f} \times i$$

$$\text{Median} = 30 + \frac{35 - 25}{12} \times 10$$

$$\therefore \boxed{\text{Median} = 38.33}$$

Chapter 8: the structure and dynamics of monetary and fiscal authority within and between the federal, state and local governments the structure and dynamics of monetary and fiscal authority within and between the federal, state and local governments is. Ten years ago, I was interviewing a nearly homeless man who was struggling to pay the rent on an apartment and hoped to get a job at a grocery store. He was short, overweight and “white” as the term was used by those times. Yet his ability to speak and his willingness to speak to me, a complete stranger, left me with more than just the knowledge of a grocery store would not hire him. I could tell that he was someone worth knowing. He spoke well about his family and his voice was filled with warmth. This is the man who would become my best friend, Jake. As I was leaving, Jake asked me, “Do you believe in God?” “I do,” I replied. “Do you pray?” he asked. I thought nothing of the exchange and walked home through the streets of Manhattan. As I walked I considered whether the man I had interviewed and befriended, the man who could not get a job, was the kind of person God would reach for. Ten years later, Jake died of cancer at the age of 28. His death was the saddest moment of my life. Jake had become a part of me, as 82157476af
